

WANTS REPORTS
ON PROGRESS OF
RED CROSS DRIVE

M. B. Frazee, chairman of the fund drive committee for the Adams County Red Cross today appealed to Adams countians to give generously to the solicitors still making house-to-house visits and urged chairmen of the various districts to report soon so that every effort can be made to complete the drive for $14,050 before the end of the campaign on Sunday.

Contributions this morning reached $6,038.36, and officials expected to reach the halfway mark, $7,025, before the day was over.

Largest contribution listed today was $50 from The Gettysburg Times. Among the large number of smaller gifts were $5 donations from Mr. and Mrs. J. William Kendeheart, C. Leslie Fair, Allen Sharrar, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bieseker, Harry Deardoff, Mr. and Mrs. John Bream, George R. Wildasin and the St. John's Hobby club of New Chester.

Eager to Reach Quota

"We are nearing the end of the largest peace-time fund drive ever conducted by the Red Cross," Mr. Frazee said this morning, "and we should like to go over the top by the end of the week. I know the various district committees have been active and have done a good job, for all have been back for more materials with which to complete their work. But so far there have been only very partial reports from a few districts and many districts have not reported at all.

"While many have cut down the amount of their donation this year, it is believed that as many countians as ever will be members of the Red Cross when the drive is completed. The county has always met its quota and we know of so many who have been generous in their contributions that there is no fear that the mark will not be reached.

"This year, probably more than ever, the Red Cross needs the donations given it. The Associated Press Sunday presented a world-wide survey of the condition of people throughout the world. That survey disclosed that nearly every nation needs help. Unless we would see people starving and without clothing, unless we would see the facilities of the Red Cross to help both others and ourselves cut, we must meet the quota."

FOUR INJURED
IN WEEK-END
AUTO CRASHES

Four persons were injured, none seriously, in two motor car accidents over the week-end. Both collisions occurred at intersections with police charging failure to yield the right of way against drivers in both crashes.

Mrs. Mary Walter, 19, Biglerville, was treated at the Warner hospital Sunday afternoon for contusions of the right knee and contusions and abrasions of the head and left knee following a crash between a car driven by her husband, Edwin L. Walter, 23, Biglerville, and John B. Kump, 20, Orrtanna.

Both Walter and Kump suffered contusions in the accident which occurred in the center of Arendtsville at the intersection of the Mummastown road with the Biglerville-Narrows road.

Woman Injured

Walter, state police said, was driving west when Kump, going north on the Mummastown-Arendtsville road, drove past the stop sign directly in front of the Walter car. Walter, police added, hit the right side of the Kump car, turning it over. Total damage was estimated at $400.

Kump will be charged before Justice of the Peace Martin Walter, with failure to yield the right of way when entering a through traffic highway, police said. A ten-day notice will be sent.

The other accident occurred on the Littlestown-Hanover road Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. Catherine Hoare, Lansdowne, Maryland, suffering injury to her face and nose. She was a passenger in a car driven by Oliver Hoare, Lansdowne, who police charged, before Justice of the Peace Howard C. Blocher, Littlestown, with having failed to yield the right of way. Hoare paid a fine and costs on the charge. Damage totaled $75 to the Hoare car and the other vehicle, which was driven by Riley Messinger, Hanover R. 1.

Others Charged

In addition to the arrests brought about by accidents, state police announced four other motor violations occurring over the week-end.

Harrison Smith, Philadelphia, will be charged before Justice of the Peace Leo Storm with reckless driving. The same charge will be placed before Justice of the Peace W. D. Brown against Simon Kuhn, Gettysburg R. 5.

Speeding charges will be placed against Oscar Crushong, New Oxford R. 2, before Justice Storm and George Givney, Jr., Everett, before Justice Brown. Ten-day notices will be sent in all four cases.

Work Of German Scientists
Helped Allies Win The War

Washington, March 25 (AP)—German scientists helped the Allies win the war. They even chipped in with helpful hints on the atomic bomb.

They didn't mean to, of course. But they did.

These scientists published their theories and discoveries in books and magazines intended only for German eyes. But even with a war on, hundreds of valuable treatises were slipped out of the Fatherland and published here.

This story is being told by an exhibit in the Library of Congress.

It isn't, however, a very exciting exhibit for the layman. For example, take a book by a gent named Peters which bears this saucy title: "Eight Page Table of Trigonometric Functions for Every Sexagesimal Second of the Quadrant." It's composed of rows of figures.

Here And There
News Collected At Random

Here are pro and con communications on the Daylight Saving Time question that is expected to come before town council at its April meeting. They come from local residents. The first requests that his name not be used. His communication follows:

"We are facing times which will be a lot worse than any time during the war, and the use of all the light will be essential to every one regardless of where he works.

"When you consider the saving in light bills alone, it will mean one month's light bill for most everyone for the summer, and as we are in the middle of most of the larger cities who have adopted same, we will be at a disadvantage if we do not follow suit.

"While it is true that some people do not like it, they do not consider all of the good points, but only the bad ones.

"There are, of course, disadvantages to some people which we all understand, but what must be considered is the fact that all the light available must be used.

"I look forward to a large flow of tourists this summer and most of them will come from sections where daylight time is in effect and I am for it 100 per cent."

Replying to your request

Saturday's Times asking opinions about changing the time of Gettysburg borough from Standard to Daylight Saving Time, my suggestion is to let the Standard Time rule our town. It will not be changed by our government. Gettysburg is a center for the traveling public, who will know nothing about this change until they arrive in town. I think our business people would not fare so well by closing.

COUNTIAN HAD MUCH TROUBLE
DISPOSING OF
ARMY MATERIAL

Did you ever try to get rid of over a million dollars worth of equipment?

George R. Tate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tate, Arendtsville, can tell you it is no easy task.

As a captain in the engineers of the Army Air Force, Tate had over a million dollars worth of heavy equipment signed out in his name and he had more trouble getting someone to take the stuff so that he could come home than he had in building the air strips and airports that the Air Force needed to help win the war against Japan.

Tate claims he was even more worried about getting rid of the graders, bulldozers, cranes and similar equipment than he was when he found himself living a few feet above 350 Japanese or when he found the Okinawa breezes blasting his home out of existence.

Former Times Carrier

A former construction man and a former carrier boy for The Gettysburg Times, Captain Tate, now on terminal leave, entered the army four years ago and went to Fort McClellan to take infantry basic training. From there he was transferred to the Air Corps and then went to Fort Belvoir to become an engineering officer.

After being stationed in several camps in the U. S. he was sent to Hawaii and from there to Guam where for 10 months he paved air fields, roads and anything else that needed paving. "By the time we got through we had asphalt on every loose inch of the island," is the way he expressed it to a reporter for The Gettysburg Times.

Tate tells of being aboard ship 42 days while the ship waited orders to go to its destination. "We ran out of food, we ran out of everything; we even began to view ourselves as becoming like the 'Ancient Mariner.'"

After Guam, Tate's outfit moved to Okinawa where the battalion set itself upon a hill and began to

NEW WAR NOT IMPOSSIBLE BUT PEACE FAVORED

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP World Traveler)

Paris, March 25—Whenever two or more serious-minded folk get together these days the conversation almost inevitably arrives at a discussion of whether this war-torn Europe is headed for another conflict.

That's a question which unhappily can't be dismissed as absurd, and it's one which your correspondent has studied diligently during a protracted tour. The answer as I see it is this:

The danger of a further upheaval does exist. However, war not only isn't inevitable but the balance is on the side of peace at this writing.

Power Politics

And what has created such a threat as exists? Well, there's no great mystery about that. It's due to differences among the major powers in connection with the realignment of the zones of influence both in Europe and in Asia. Power politics is another designation for it.

The newborn might of Russia is pouring into much of the vacuum created by the disappearance of Germany, Italy and Japan as first class powers, and by the disability of France and Britain to defend their place in the sun.

Until that realignment is finished, peace will be in danger. There remains some highly delicate points to be settled—for example, Moscow's intentions regarding Austria, Turkey, Iran and Manchuria—but if and when they have been ironed out the danger of trouble will have been reduced to a minimum, unless some power displays ambition to exceed the new zones of influence.

Generalissimo Stalin, in an interview with the Associated Press the other day, expressed confidence in the United Nations as an instrument for preserving peace. That reflects the views of numerous statesmen with whom I have talked recently in various European countries. All are keenly aware of the dangers to peace, but none believe the dangers are unsurmountable.

Up To Big 3

The degree of success of the United Nations organization will be in direct ratio to the degree of agreement among the Big Three—Russia, Britain and America. The corollary is that so long as the Big Three stand together there will be no major rupture of the peace.

The United Nations organization has dangerous waters to negotiate at the outset. Apart from the maneuvering of the European powers for position there are other problems developing out of the chaos caused by the war. The plague of hunger which is sweeping both Europe and Asia is likely to produce numerous crises among the distressed people. Inflation is creating impossible situations in many countries. Then, of course, there are the political troubles of India, Indonesia and China.

Still none of the problems, serious as they are, need cause another global conflict—barring one contingency. That contingency would be the attempt of a major power to take advantage of a crisis to extend its own territory or zone of influence.

3 Cars Involved In Sunday Mishap

A 1946 auto, driven only about 500 miles, was one of three cars involved in an accident a mile and a half east of Hanover on the road between Hanover and Spring Grove Sunday at 1:30 a. m.

Landis failed to stop and continued to Spring Grove, police said. Myers turned his car, pursued Landis, and caught up with him just as he was parking in front of his home.

Both Myers and Rohrbaugh said Landis was driving on the wrong side of the road, and he in turn stated that it was they who were on the wrong side, police said. Landis said that he hadn't stopped after the accident because he believed it of no consequence and thought neither of the other two drivers were going to stop, police declared. They estimated the damage to the new car at $100 and to the two other cars combined at about $50. No one was injured.

ALLENTOWN AND RADNOR QUINTS MEET AT PHILLY

By TO SHRIVER

Harrisburg, March 25 (AP)—History repeats tonight at Philadelphia's Convention Hall as Allentown and Radnor clash for the eastern championship in the annual Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association tournament.

Last year the two teams met for the eastern title with Allentown winning 38-31, later going on to beat Donora for the state crown, 30-28. The rivals clashed this year on Radnor's floor and again seven points separated the teams at the finish with Allentown in front 37-30.

Winding up with an unbroken string of 17 straight last year the Allentown boys have chalked up 26 consecutive wins this season for a mark of 43 in a row. They need two more wins to equal the 45 straight mark set by Hazleton during the seasons of 1928-29-30.

Radnor's chief hope of victory rests in two factors, a sensational center named "Stu" Adams, and the possibility that Allentown is weary from too much basketball.

Has Same Team

Coach Birney Crum will send the same team on the floor for Allentown that won last year's contest. Elmo Jackson at forward has improved to the point where he is definitely a possibility for all-state honors, while Bill Wanish, last year's all-state forward, is now at center. In addition the Canaries have a great guard in Ray Dini, and two other veterans in Frank Pfeiffer and Dick Hoffman.

The winner of tonight's game will move into the state finals at Convention Hall, Philadelphia, on Saturday against the winner of tomorrow night's fray between Homestead and Warren.

Homestead, like Allentown, has won 26 in a row, while Warren has shown plenty of power in taking the district ten crown and then eliminating Allegheny of Pittsburgh to move into the western finals at McKeesport Vocational high.

In the class B ranks the eastern and western finals will be played on Tuesday, with Manheim Township and Fell Township clashing at Hershey Industrial school for eastern honors and East Brady meeting Stonycreek Township at Punksutawney for western honors.

Coroner H. Albert McMurray said death occurred from natural causes.

NEW GRID BODY PATTERNED ON BASEBALL IDEA

Philadelphia, March 25 (AP)—Bert

Bell, commissioner of the National football league, says he "feels sure" his circuit will recognize the new association of professional football leagues—an organization of three minor leagues that hopes "ultimately" to become the governing body of all professional football.

The association, formed yesterday, comprises the American football association, the Dixie football league and the Pacific coast league. Its set-up is patterned after organized baseball's national association of professional leagues.

J. Rufus Klawans of San Francisco, named chairman of the new group at a meeting here, asserted bluntly:

"This is the most forward step ever taken in professional football. We hope this ultimately will be the governing body of all professional football. It involves recognition of player contracts so there will not be any 'jumping' of players. It also involves recognition of territorial rights of all member leagues."

Klawans said he "hoped" the national football league would join the association "as well as all new football leagues, such as the all-America conference and a proposed Texas league."

Bell said the NFL has working agreements with the Dixie and American association leagues and is seeking a tieup with the Pacific coast circuit.

George R. Hutchins, Portsmouth, Va., secretary of the association, told a reporter the new group "does not recognize the all-American conference because it is not yet operating."

CAPITALS CRUSH BISONS 7 TO 1

(By The Associated Press)
Indianapolis' high scoring Capitals, Western Division American Hockey league flag winners, have finally crashed the win column in the loop's Calder Cup playoff.

The Caps pounded the Buffalo Bisons, Eastern Division champions, 7-1 in Indianapolis last night after dropping their first two contests of a best-of-seven series to the Bisons in Buffalo by scores of 5-1 and 1-0.

Indianapolis will entertain the Bisons again tomorrow night in their fourth game while Cleveland Barons play host to the Pittsburgh Hornets in the opening game of a best-of-three set to determine the opponent of the victor of the Cap-Bison series in the final round of the playoffs.

Cleveland, third place finishers in the Western Division, qualified for the semi-finals by beating the third place Eastern Division Providence Reds in two straight contests, 2-0 and 5-2. Pittsburgh, runners-up in the Western Division, entered the semi-finals by taking two out of three from the Hershey Bears, Eastern Division second place occupants.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, March 25 (AP)—The New York Rovers' Freddie Metcalfe, one of the best coaches in amateur hockey, is taking on a big responsibility for one of the few progressive moves that sport has made. . . . For years hockey "progress" has been limited to tinkering with the rules and increasing the ticket-selling force to take care of the customers. . . . This spring the American Hockey League blossomed out with a promotion program and now Tom (Doubleheader) Lockhart has handed Metcalfe the task of trying to develop new talent where hockey talent never has been found before. . . . Lockhart, who continues to boss amateur hockey though he was moved up to the pro Rangers, explains it this way: . . . Metcalfe will have charge of a couple of junior leagues which may produce some players for the metropolitan or eastern circuits. He will continue to coach the Rovers and scout for the Rangers in the off-season and next winter he'll conduct a weekly school for high school, college and club coaches. . . . The last is probably the biggest job of all, for one hitch in developing young players this side of Canada has been that the kids had no one to show them the right way to play.

Called Forward Step
"This is the most forward step ever taken in professional football. We hope this ultimately will be the governing body of all professional football. It involves recognition of player contracts so there will not be any 'jumping' of players. It also involves recognition of territorial rights of all member leagues."

Klawans said he "hoped" the national football league would join the association "as well as all new football leagues, such as the all-America conference and a proposed Texas league."

Bell said the NFL has working agreements with the Dixie and American association leagues and is seeking a tieup with the Pacific coast circuit.

George R. Hutchins, Portsmouth, Va., secretary of the association, told a reporter the new group "does not recognize the all-American conference because it is not yet operating."

MONDAY MATINEE

They're giving the old Indian game of lacrosse back to the Indians this year. Vic Starzenski, former Rensselaer coach, is taking steps to introduce the game at the Albuquerque, N. M., Indian school. . . . When he heard that Elroy Hirsch finally has admitted signing with John Keeshin's Chicago Rockets, the football Giants' Jack Mara commented: "He'll be awfully lonely out there in Soldiers Field at night." . . . The Boston Braves owners are reported to be thinking seriously about putting a weather proof canopy over their ball park. . . . Ben Carnevale,

AGGIES TO MEET NORTH CAROLINA

New York, March 25 (AP)—Led by Bob (Footballs) Kurland, the Oklahoma Aggies, defending National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball champions, will invade New York's Madison Square Garden tomorrow night in a history-making attempt to become the first two-time winner of the eight-year-old tournament.

The Stillwater, Okla., Cowboys, fresh from their 52-35 thumping of California which followed an easy 44-29 conquest of Baylor to enable them to retain their western regional NCAA title, will be opposed by North Carolina, whose overall 30-4 won and lost record compares favorably to the Aggies' 30 wins in 32 games.

The White Phantoms of Chapel Hill earned the right to meet the Aggies in the east-west playoff by eliminating New York university 57-49, and Ohio State 60-57 in overtime, to capture the eastern regional NCAA crown.

Ohio State, whose loss to North Carolina Saturday night was its second overtime defeat in the last two eastern finals, will meet California in a preliminary to the Aggies-Tarheels struggle.

These men KNOW what the RED CROSS Can Do

"Red Cross has done a 100 per cent job in this theatre. Mathematical limitations alone prevent my saying Red Cross services here have been more than 100 per cent."

—General Douglas MacArthur, Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers and Commander in Chief of The U. S. Forces in the Pacific

"The Red Cross, with its clubs for recreation . . . its readiness to meet the needs of the well and help minister to the wounded—even more important, the devotion and warm-hearted sympathy of the Red Cross girl—has often seemed to be the friendly hand of this nation, reaching across the sea to sustain its fighting men."

—From an address before Congress, June 8, 1945 by General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Chief of Staff

"In the wake of every war, thousands of men are left injured. When hospitalized, hours can drag on endlessly . . . the friendly smile and helping hand of the Red Cross worker can shorten them immensely. When our wounded were in hospitals overseas . . . the Red Cross was there . . . now that they're in hospitals here at home, the Red Cross is still with them. Though the war is over, our men need the Red Cross as much as ever."

—General Norman T. Kirk, Surgeon General of the Army

"There'll be no forgotten men in this war.

BLACK-EYE
Well, it had to come, I knew.
Never boy to manhood grew
But a black eye, soon or late,
Would be his as sure as fate.

Every mother of a lad
This experience has had,
And 'gainst neighbor sons rebelled
As that "shiner" she beheld.

Now it's over with and done!
He came home last week with one.
And his mother says the source
Was a bigger boy, of course.

But his grandpa laughs out loud,
And he tells in manner proud:
As a boy, he'll bet a hat
He'd a blacker eye than that!

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SELF-EMANCIPATION

Most of the worries that cling to us throughout life, and which befog our way ahead, are caused by our unwillingness to emancipate ourselves from them, before they have a strangle hold upon us.

We hold to foolish conventions, imagined necessities, and overworn prejudices. None of these belong to a self-emancipated human being. Neither has intolerance, hatreds, or suspicions a place in the healthy mind. Said Sir Richard Burton in his great poem The Kasidah, "From none but self expect applause!"

Not until this self of ours has been wholly emancipated do we enjoy and come into a full realization of the priceless freedom of life. It is the natural state to which we have been born. Defective thinking and wrong methods of education always lead to undesired destinations. We are law-givers to ourselves, and no laws are more sacred than the ones we make to guide us safely and happily throughout life. The free mind and the free spirit alone assure reasonable contentment.

The great thinkers and doers of the world have always been those who were not afraid to brush aside all unhealthy traditions and unconfirmed facts. To them—pioneers in freedom of thought and bold expression, we owe the progress that we have made in all mental and spiritual enlightenment.

The example of Christ stands alone as the perfect representation of a self-emancipated life. The truths that he uttered were, and are, eternal truths. And those truths were so simple and unclouded it is amazing that so few desire their daily application.

The burdens we bear so ungrudgingly are mostly mental ones. They require but the power of mind and character to unload them, so why should they be needlessly carried? These burdens should be dropped, not shifted to others.

Life is difficult enough, without superfluous entanglements. Be free. Think free. Live free. Learn the thrill of self-emancipation!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Harmony."

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Paris In Revolt: Paris, March 19—

On Friday afternoon a Council of War was held, which was presided over by M. Thiers, when it was resolved that a last appeal should be made to the Montmartre insurgents to disperse, and if that failed, a strong force of troops and gendarmes would be sent against them.

The government sent a detachment of troops and gendarmes to occupy the positions in the Montmartre district. A considerable number of cannon were removed, and the gendarmes made some 400 prisoners. In the morning however, the National Guards of Belleville and Montmartre, with many unarmed soldiers of the line, arrived on the scene and released the prisoners.

Paris, March 20: In every part of the leading thoroughfares of the city barricades have been thrown up by the insurgents. Gen Chanzy was sent with a large body of troops to Montmartre to suppress the insurrection. The troops, however, for the most part, went over to the insurgents. Chanzy was made a prisoner, taken to the meeting place of the Central Committee, and after a sort trial, shot. The regular troops fraternized with the mob everywhere and all army discipline seems gone. Immense numbers of insurgents have left for Versailles with the intention of endeavoring to overawe the Assembly, which will sit tomorrow. General Duval is at the head of the insurgents and leading them on their wild and mad career.

March 22: It is rumored that Bonapartist agents are inciting revolution in Paris, to break down the present Government and pave the way for the restoration of the empire.

Hotel: During the past week Mr. Levi Rohrbach, of Glen Rock, took possession of the Washington House, on Carlisle street (formerly Younts). It is the intention of Mr. R. to refit and furnish the house in the most acceptable manner—Special attention will be paid to the traveling public, and every accommodation provided to make Summer Boarders feel perfectly at home. The table and bar will always be supplied with the best market affords. Stabling and good attentive Ostlers.

Married: Hershey-Creager: On the 21st inst., by Rev. Dr. Hauer, Mr. Lewis Hershey, of New Oxford, to Miss Louisa Creager, of Mount Pleasant township.

McClary-Musselman: On the 21st inst., at Valley home, near Fairfield, by the Rev. E. S. Johnston, Mr. J. Wilson McClary, of this place, to Miss Amanda A. Musselman, daughter of Maj. John Musselman.

Becker-Eppelman: On the 19th, by Rev. Jacob Ziegler, Mr. Wm. P. Becker, of Adams county, to Miss Emma J. Eppelman, daughter of Jacob Eppelman, Esq., of York county, formerly of Adams county.

Bushman-Lady: In Franklin township, on the 12th inst., by Rev. M. Snyder, Mr. Samuel F. Bushman to Miss Sarah J. Lady, both of this county.

Little-Cannon: On the 21st inst., at the "Washington House," Chambersburg, Pa., by Rev. B. S. Schneck, Mr. Daniel Little to Mrs. Mary Ann Cannon, both of Gettysburg.

Light Sowing Gives Better Lettuce Yield

The hand that sows the lettuce seed often is all too lavish, with the result that lettuce seedlings spring up in the rows as thick as the proverbial hair on a dog's back. The sad part of it is that thinning the seedlings rarely receives the attention it needs, and in consequence the row produces an abundance of leaves but no really good lettuces such as one sees in the vegetable stores.

Consider for a moment, and you will realize that a respectable lettuce takes up a fair amount of room, a circle of eight or nine inches in diameter perhaps; this means that to plant a row only one seed, theoretically, is required for every nine inches of row. Even allowing for pulling some when half grown, only one plant every four or four and a half inches is required. Actually, of course, it is wise to sow rather more seeds than the theoretical minimum.

You will save seed and time however, if instead of scattering seeds all along the drill you merely drop about three seeds at four or four and a half inch intervals. When the plants are well up, pull out all except the strongest at each station; when half grown and beginning to touch one another, cut out every other one for table use and leave the remainder to mature.

BURNING BUSH GIVES COLORS IN 2 SEASONS

Burning bush, summer cypress, bevelere and Mexican firebush are four of the best known popular names for Kochia scorparia and trichophylla. It is the latter that is offered by most seedsmen in this country because it is the more beautiful.

Although the flowers have no ornamental value, being so small that few gardeners ever have taken notice of them, it is a useful annual, forming dense, compact bushes of globular form with an average height of three to four feet. They resemble small well grown, evergreens in appearance, being made up of great masses of slender light green leaves arranged in an orderly fashion.

When cool autumn weather approaches, they turn brilliant crimson as a climax to their seasonal beauty. Individual specimens add a pleasing touch to the border of annuals or they may be used as a hedge to separate various garden features. They even may be clipped or sheared to stimulate a privet hedge, but that takes away some of their graceful beauty.

Needs Warm Weather

Kochia is easy to grow from seed. While it is a hardy annual, it is best to delay sowing outdoors until the nights have turned balmy. Earlier sowings usually do not respond until the weather has moderated.

It will self-seed quite freely, but cannot be considered a nuisance plant because the seedlings are so distinctive that none could be overlooked where they are to be weeded out. They have a shallow root system and can be pulled up with ease whenever the soil is moist.

Kochia likes a fairly rich soil and a fair supply of moisture. If left to shift for itself during hot, dry summer weather, it will not reach its normal height. When water is given, let it run on the soil so that the tops will be kept dry.

RED RASPBERRY DISEASE

The virus disease known as "mosaic" is quite a problem in the production of red raspberries. Sick plants do not die at once but are weak, non-productive and very subject to winter injury. When the symptoms, such as weak, spindly growth, pale, mottled leaves and berries that tend to shrivel and crumble appear it is time to destroy the plant completely.

As soon as all the roots are dead so that no suckers will survive to provide a source of infection, a new lot of healthy plants may be set. The disease does not live in the soil.

SWAN RIVER DAISY EDGES

One of the daintiest edging plants is the little Swan River daisy (Brachycome). It forms tiny mounds studded with blue, pink or white stars half an inch across. It flowers best in the cooler sections of the country.

Where the summers are hot it is advisable to start the plants early indoors or in a coldframe and transplant them to stand six inches apart along the edge of the border. This will give them the opportunity to make growth and bloom before the arrival of very hot weather.

Flashes Of Life

A BET'S A BET

Portland, Ore., (AP) — The Rev. William G. Everson of the First Baptist church paused in the middle of a farewell address, stepped down from the pulpit and handed Mayor Earl Riley, a member of the church, a dollar bill.

To the bewildered congregation, Rev. Everson explained he wanted to leave no unpaid debts in Portland when he becomes pastor of a Richmond, Ind., church.

The dollar, he said, was to square a bet he had lost with Riley.

LONG LIVER

Chicago, (AP) — Arpad Sabados, today celebrating what he said is his 110th birthday, philosophized, "a man needs only four things to be happy and healthy—beer, beer, dollars and good friends."

His recipe for longevity: "Whenever a doctor gave me a prescription I translated it to mean a drink of beer. Of if I really feel bad, a drink of whisky."

No Accord Near

On Lewis Demands

Washington, March 25 (AP)—John L. Lewis and soft coal operators were reported far apart today on a new contract for 400,000 miners although the April 1 deadline for a possible nation-wide strike crept closer.

Next week evidently was going to be crucial, for a decision to recess the bargaining negotiations until Monday elapsed two days from the nine remaining for working out an agreement on demands of the United Mine Workers for better wage, hours and welfare provisions.

With the time so short, most operators were pessimistic about the possibility of averting a strike by arranging a new contract or negotiating an extension of the present one.

Plan To Keep Soil Busy All Summer For Top Yield

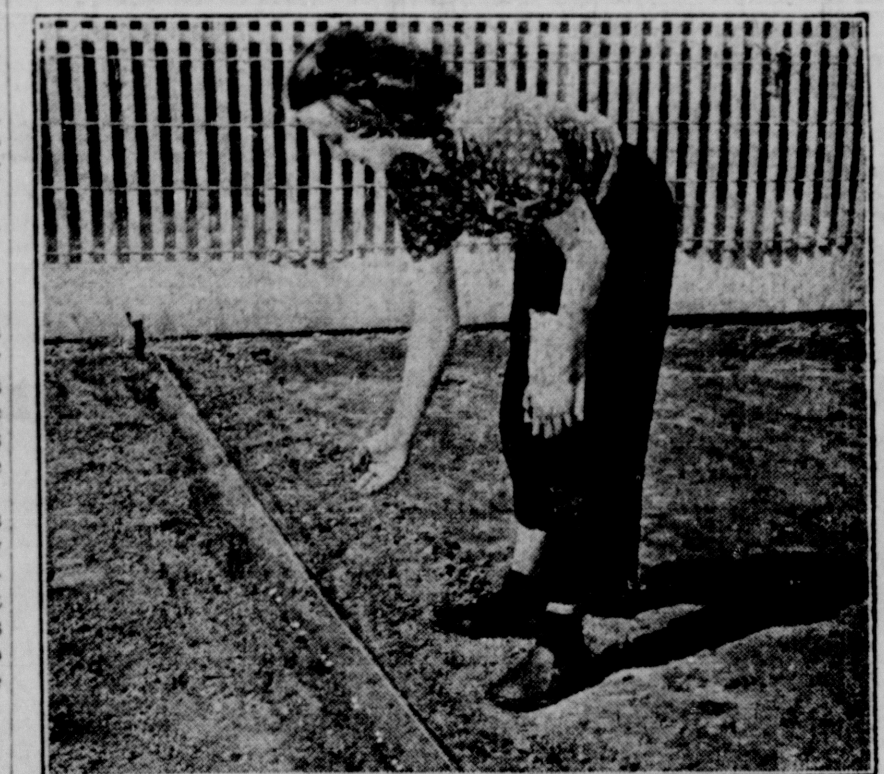

In a small garden, planned to produce an all season supply of each vegetable grown, and keep the land working without idle periods, an amazing quantity of fresh vegetables of high quality can be grown. It is far more economical to cultivate efficiently a small plot, than to work twice the space haphazardly, and the yield of the small area may easily equal or exceed the large. The small space may be better kept with less work, and less seed, fertilizer and insecticides will be needed. Well fed vegetables will have higher quality, and the owner will take more pride in the appearance of his plot.

All this requires only careful planning; and that can be done in a few hours during an evening before the ground outside is dry enough to spade. A suggested schedule for a space 24x50 feet is given below, with a diagram of the area above.

Right Way To Sow Seed Lessens Work And Waste

There is a good reason for sowing more seeds than will be allowed to grow; but when this is overdone, not only is there a waste of seed, but unnecessary work is created in thinning out. Care in sowing will be repaid many times by reduced work later.

Seeds that germinate slowly, such as carrots, parsley, and parsnips, should be sown more thickly than others because the seedlings are feeble, and the force of many acting together helps break the soil crust and bring the sprouts to the surface.

Liberty H. Bailey, dean of horticultural teachers, expresses this opinion: "It is much safer to sow even excessive amounts of seed, than to sow just as many as are theoretically needed on a basis of the number of mature plants to the row. Thinning is a process of selection, and the best are allowed to remain. It is evident the chances of securing the best are greater when the gardener leaves one plant out of ten, rather than one plant out of three."

Even Distribution
But real selection is impossible if seeds are sown so thickly the roots of the tiny plants become entangled, and it is impossible to remove single plants, without disturbing neighbors. The thickest sowing therefore should allow each seed sufficient space to develop as an individual.

The surest way with small seeds is to take a few in the hand, and let them fall through the fingers into the drill which has been prepared. Get close to the ground, and with a little practice you can quickly acquire control so that the seeds will be evenly distributed, each sufficiently distant from the next to prevent entanglement.

Keep the seeds in line as well as you can. It helps to let the garden line which was used in making the drill remain in place until the seeds have been dropped.

Mix With Sand
It helps to mix the very small seeds with dry sand before you begin to sow, using two or three times as much sand as seed. This spreads the seeds out better.

Large seeds may be sown in pairs, spaced at the distance plants are to stand. If both seeds grow one plant of the pair can be pulled up. Bush beans, for example, give good results when standing four inches apart in the row. By sowing seeds in pairs four inches apart, an even stand is assured. In the case of beans, even if thinning is neglected and the twin plants are allowed to mature together there is little harm, but with plants of a different habit, thinning would be essential.

One out of every four children under 15 years of age suffers from defective vision.

Free Grape Spray Schedule
To grow grapes free from insect ravages and diseases it is necessary to protect the vines, foliage and clusters by consistent spraying. Rarely are profitable yields obtained without such protection. Therefore, every vine owner should write the editor at once for a free copy of our 1946 grape spray schedule. Merely enclose a 3-cent stamp with request and do not hesitate to include any fruit growing questions desired.

Hoe And Cultivator Gardener's Friends

No doubt about it at all, the hoe and cultivator are the gardener's best friends in those areas that are devoted to one-season plants, such as vegetables and flower garden annuals. Start early and keep the upper inch or inch and a half (but not more) loosened and broken fine by the use of these tools.

Use them as soon after every rain as it is safe to walk upon the soil without danger of puddling it, and in dry periods use them after every watering and sufficiently often in between to kill all weeds while they are yet tiny. Surface cultivation kills weeds, admits air, conserves water and promotes growth.

CABBAGE PROTECTION

To provide for cabbage over a long season sow several varieties which mature in succession. Golden Acre and Copenhagen Market are two splendid early sorts, and Danish Ballhead is hard to beat for a late variety.

To prevent bursting of the heads, which reduces their value for kitchen use, give the plants showing this tendency a sharp twist to sever some of the roots. This will reduce their capacity for absorbing their normal quota of water and hold them back for some time.

SOWING CALIFORNIA POPPY

Plenty of sunshine and good drainage are needed to grow California poppies to perfection. Because each plant makes just one single taproot, transplanting even while still very small is likely to result in failure.

Sow the seed where the plants are to bloom and thin to stand four to five inches apart to insure vigorous plants and an abundance of flowers. There are several splendid varieties in yellow, orange, pink and red which give a colorful effect in the summer and fall garden.

Preventing Cabbage Yellows

Cabbage yellows is so severe in its ravages and so widely prevalent that all growers should know in advance of the season the few prevention measures necessary to cope with the disease. And first among important facts in relation to cabbage yellows control is the well established principle that the trouble cannot be combated successfully by spraying. It is soil-borne and must be prevented.

Usually the first symptoms of yellows are the characteristic loss of green coloring from the leaves and a stunted condition. This seldom occurs until two to four weeks after plants are transplanted to their growing site, although some cases of infection in the bed are reported. Infected plants become lifeless, with the yellowing worse on the one side of the leaf, thereby causing a lateral warping or curling. If such plants are cut crosswise of the stems the sap canals in the woody ring will be found darker than those of normal plants. However, this discoloration never turns entirely black, as it does in cases of black rot. Yellowed cabbage plants shed their lower leaves early and later make a weak attempt to develop growth above. Damages may be confined to imperfect heading or death may be outright in a few weeks.

Yellows organisms apparently live for years in soils where diseased plants have grown or where drainage water from infected areas flow. In fact, the disease may be easily spread on cultivating implements or by other direct means. It is worse during warm, dry seasons. Occasionally it affects other related vegetables, such as kale, collards and kohlrabi. Cauliflower, broccoli and Brussels sprouts are partly resistant, while turnips, rutabagas and most other crucifers are immune.

Strict sanitation by burning all cabbage refuse soon after the harvest season and rotating cabbage to clean soils each year may help in avoiding yellows, but these practices alone are futile where the disease is known to exist generally or where outbreaks have occurred in recent years. Safety lies in growing some of the improved resistant varieties. These include: Wisconsin Hollander, Wisconsin Ballhead, Wisconsin All Seasons,

All Head Select, Marion Market, Globe, Jersey Queen, Red Hollander and others. Gardeners should note guarantees of yellows resistance when buying seed and demand such information when buying cabbage plants.

Growers may produce their own seed of strains which have proved resistant where the disease is known to exist. Of course, cabbage blossoms are cross-pollinated by bees and should be kept at least 80 to 100 rods away from other varieties.

The careless practice of allowing undeveloped heads, old stalks, discarded leaves and similar cabbage refuse to remain in the garden or on the growing field over winter invites yellows and several other serious crop diseases. The safest way to dispose of such debris is to burn it after the crop is harvested.

To place such litter on manure or compost heaps may mean a wider dissemination of the menace. Plowing it under is likewise dangerous. Gardeners who suffered from yellows ravages in their cabbage with in the last few years must turn to resistant varieties to escape losses in 1946 and the years ahead.

Surge DAIRY/FARM/EQUIPMENT

The SURGE is the only milking machine that milks with a downward and forward TUG and PULL. It is the swinging action of the pail and the milk it contains that does the job as you want it to be done. It is the only milker that can be adjusted easily to milk ALL of your cows dry. The harder the cow milks—the harder the TUG and PULL must be IF you want to get all of her milk. One or two teats can be milked as easily as three or four. The pail cannot tip over and spill the milk in the gutter. The teat cups cannot drop down and act as a vacuum cleaner for the floor. SURGE users do not know what "claw riding" or "machine stripping" is—but they DO KNOW THAT FAST MILKING PRODUCES MORE MILK. You cannot wash the long milk tubes and the claws on a SURGE because it has none.

THE SURGE HAS MILKED ITS WAY TO THE TOP. IT IS THE MODERN METHOD OF MILKING AND IT IS HERE TO STAY. IT DOES FOR YOU AUTOMATICALLY WHAT ALL OTHER MILKERS HAVE TO BE HELPED TO DO.

IT REALLY PAYS TO WAIT FOR A SURGE.

"It's easier to produce clean milk with the Surge Milker because it's easier to keep the Surge Milker Clean."

SCIENTISTS LAUD DELAY IN BOMB TESTS

Philadelphia, March 25 (AP)—Failure of the United Nations organization to effect world peace "will end in the most destructive explosions our earth has ever seen," warns the National Council of the Federation of American Scientists.

The federation, ending a two-day secret session at the University of Pennsylvania yesterday, lauded postponement of America's atom bomb test in the Pacific.

The group claims affiliation of 14 associations of wartime project scientists, including 90 per cent of the men who helped develop the atom bomb.

Federation Chairman Dr. William Higinbotham, Los Alamos, N. M., declared in a statement that "it would have been unfortunate at this time to focus the attention of the world so dramatically on our military preparations."

"The navy tests will have a purely military value. Scientists recognize that such bombings . . . are not significant from the standpoint of developing atomic energy for peaceful purposes," he asserted.

"Scientists believe that in the atomic age no amount of military preparation can give us real security. If there is another war, with atomic weapons, we and all the world will suffer irreparable losses no matter who may be the victor."

"The great experiment to which this nation and its leaders should devote their greatest attention and energy is under way in the UNO. We do not need further bombing tests to tell us that if this larger trial of world order fails the great UNO experiment will end in the most destructive explosions our earth has ever seen."

Simonpures Trim Chicago Favorites

New York, March 25 (AP)—Fit as a fiddle and raring to go after four months of campaigning, some of the best amateur leatherpushers of the east and west will clash tonight in the 19th annual New York-Chicago inter-city Golden Gloves contest before an expected capacity crowd of 19,000 fans in Madison Square garden.

The Chicago squad, made up of the cream of the simonpure ring talent from Utah and Texas to Ohio, was slightly favored to turn the tables on the easterners who are defending titleholders in the team competition.

The New York team is composed of the survivors of regional tournaments, which were held in eastern areas from Florida to the Great Lakes and in Puerto Rico, and the eastern finals in the garden.

CHETNIK LEADER HELD AS TRAITOR BY JUGOSLAVS

Belgrade, March 25 (AP)—Gen. Draja Mihailovic, once hailed as a guerrilla hero in the fight against the Nazis, was officially reported under arrest as a traitor and war criminal today following his capture by Yugoslav authorities.

Alexander Rankovic, minister of the interior, announced to a cheering parliament yesterday that the wartime leader of the Chetniks, who had been hunted for nearly 2 years in the Yugoslav hills by Marshal Tito's forces, had been seized March 13.

Rankovic did not say where the capture occurred, but it was rumored that Mihailovic, King Peter's former war minister, was trapped near Visegrad, near the Serbian-Bosnian border.

Forces Dwindled
An official radio broadcast said the general was captured in a mountain cave guarded by only 11 men of his forces, which once were estimated to total as many as 200,000.

The radio account quoted Rankovic as saying:
"These (11) men were all that was left after his disastrous defeat of May, 1945. There is no doubt Mihailovic was the last hope of the reactionaries x x x working, openly or secretly, against the Yugoslav federal republic."

Charged By Russians
Dr. Ivan Subasic, former foreign minister, said last May that Mihailovic "will be shot" when captured. He added that the Chetnik leader would be given a "fair trial, but we have enough legal evidence to convict him."

The 49-year-old, bespectacled Serbian guerrilla leader organized the first Yugoslav resistance bands in the hills after the Germans streamed into Yugoslavia in April, 1941. He was promoted to general in December, 1941, and a month later, King Peter appointed him minister of war, navy and air force.

The Soviet Union accused him in February, 1943, of collaborating with the Axis. Later, Tito, leftist partisan and now Yugoslav premier, accused him of collaboration and of inciting Bulgarians to fight the partisans.

SAY WALLACE PUTS POLITICS IN WORLD POLICY

Washington, March 25 (AP)—Republicans lashed out today at Secretary of Commerce Wallace for what Senator Ball (R-Minn.), described as "an effort to tangle American foreign policy in partisan politics."

Wallace's declaration that a GOP Congressional victory next fall "would have a gravely disturbing effect on the whole international situation" was regarded by minority party lawmakers as setting the pattern of probable Democratic attack in the approaching election campaign.

Senator Ball struck back at the cabinet member's remark—prefacing the annual Jackson Day dinner speech by President Truman here Saturday night—that if the Republicans win in November "the traditional isolationist policies would inevitably lead to world disaster."

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), said he believed Wallace was "on sound grounds in his statements on what would be the meaning of the election of a Republican Congress."

"In foreign policy," the Florida senator asserted, "there would be an inevitable retracing of our steps toward power politics and excessive nationalism, which in the last analysis is isolationism."

"The same spirit and point of view which makes the Republicans prefer the few over the many leads to that excessive nationalism and jingoism in foreign policy which has characterized essentially every Republican administration in the memory of living people."

However, Senator Austin (R-Vt.), took exception to this view. Deploring, like Ball, any move that would make foreign policy a political issue in this year's political campaign, the New Englander told a reporter:
"The performance of Republicans in Congress is the answer to that. Republicans not only have supported, but have taken the leadership, in the strides that have been made toward international cooperation for peace."

COUNTIAN HAD

to wonder why the natives of Okinawa had lived either in the valleys or had built five-foot walls all around their houses. Everybody assumed that was just some local custom.

"Then the wind started to blow. My tent went to smithereens at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and the wind didn't really get started until seven p. m. I found shelter in a quonset hut that was bolted down. Men crawled into trucks and anything that was heavy and held to the ground. One man lived in an ice box that was all that remained of a kitchen.

"When the wind let up there were four buildings standing out of quarters for 900 men, and everything else was somewhere either on the other end of Okinawa or far out to sea.

"After that the army rebuilt, this time low, heavy wooden structures that were firmly fastened to the ground, and the camps came down off the tops of the hills."

Pities Last Man

But neither storm nor Japanese was as difficult as getting rid of the equipment. "Next time I sign for anything," added Tate, "it will be something I own personally or soon will own." Tate ended the war as heavy equipment officer for the 1884th Engineer Aviation battalion.

"And at that I had it lucky. Every battalion that closed finally got rid of its equipment by having the officer for the remaining battalions sign for it. I pity the final man on the island, signed for millions and millions of dollars worth of equipment and no one else there to take it over for him."

Married, Tate now lives at Washington, D. C., but may move back to Adams county if he can get into the construction business here, he says.

Chapter 22

"Waiting for me?" Di repeated. "Sit down!" he said. "Yes . . . Yes . . . It is your uncle's wish that you should be informed . . . He is leaving you practically his entire estate of seven hundred thousand dollars."

His pleased smile died on his lips. "Are you ill?" he cried. "No," she said, faintly. "Only, naturally . . . I . . . I want to see Uncle Rufus, please."

"Quite natural and proper!" said Mr. Purvis. "Perhaps I was somewhat too abrupt . . . There's no cause for immediate alarm. Doctor Coat assures me . . ."

"I'll just go up and see," said Di. And all the way up the stairs she said to herself: "I have the upper hand. I'll insist upon seeing him. And I'll say what I want to say. I'll see him alone."

As she reached the top of the stairs, she was startled to hear her aunt laugh, a low, cheerful chuckle, answered by another laugh, a man's.

There they were, Aunt Emma and Doctor Coat; Doctor Coat leaning against the wall, Aunt Emma standing facing him, smoking, looking up at him with a glance that was coquettish and gay.

Di turned away, astounded by this new aspect of Aunt Emma.

"But now's my chance!" she thought, hastening to Uncle Rufus's room.

The door was open, and Uncle Peter was sitting in there, half asleep. But at the sight of her he came wide awake in an instant.

She looked past him to the bed where the old man lay.

"Uncle Rufus!" she said. "Come here!" he answered, in a voice so hoarse and faint she could scarcely hear it. She went toward the bed, but Uncle Peter sprang up and barred the way.

"Stand out of the way, please!" he said.

"No!" said Uncle Peter. "And what's this?" asked Aunt Emma's voice from the doorway, where she had appeared, with Doctor Coat.

The old man on the bed half-raised himself.

"Don't go . . ." he said, in that hoarse, extinguished voice. "They'll kill me. Stay . . ."

He sank back, turned his head to the wall. Diana faced Doctor Coat.

"Did you hear?" she asked. "Most unfortunate . . .!" he murmured.

She was indignant at so weak a word. She stepped out into the hall, where she could speak without Uncle Rufus hearing.

Aunt Emma interrupted, "Diana's convinced that we're all engaged in a conspiracy—to murder Uncle Rufus."

"Come, come, Emma!" said Doctor Coat, shocked. "I'm sure she thinks nothing of the sort." He glanced at Di, and smiled; no doubt he meant it for a benign, and reassuring smile, but it was not. "The important point," he went on, "is that Rufus doesn't believe in this—this conspiracy himself. Only this afternoon, when I suggested moving him to a hospital, he refused. That is pretty conclusive proof that this is not a genuine delusion."

"It's no use, Matthew!" Aunt Emma interrupted. "I'd like a word with her, if you'll excuse me. Come here, please!"

Di followed her into the next room; not until the door was closed behind them did she realize what room this was.

"Are you able to realize that if you persist in taking this notion of your Uncle Rufus's seriously you are tending to invalidate his will?"

"I don't care!" said Di. "I can't—I won't—see him—like this. He's frightened."

"My God!" said Aunt Emma, with a sigh. "Very well! I'll admit that he's frightened. He has the paranoiac delusion of persecution. Technically, he's insane. Like your father."

"My father!" cried Di. "Like your father," Aunt Emma repeated. "He believed he was persecuted. He—"

"He wasn't insane!" cried Di. "That's not—"

"The stock is tainted," Aunt Emma went on, tranquilly. "You must have observed it. Peter's a high-grade moron. Rufus is a paranoiac. Miles, just at present, is a borderline case."

"This inclination of yours to build fantasies is dangerous. It was just that refusal to accept reality that destroyed your unfortunate mother."

"Don't—talk about her!" said Di. "I think," said Aunt Emma, slowly. "It's time . . . I've kept it from you, until now, because you are so remarkably ill-adapted to hear any unpleasant truths. But now . . . Here, in this room . . ."

"I don't—want to hear . . ." she said.

"But you're going to hear," said Aunt Emma. "It was in this room that I last saw her alive. I was fond of Inez, but I had seen from the beginning that she was pitifully maladjusted. Like you, she was incapable of facing reality. She demanded a love and loyalty from other people which is never given. She wanted to be 'happy.' You are like her."

Her strong fingers closed upon the girl's arm.

"Come here!" she said, and led her to the window. "She wrote her name, here, on the sill. It's too dark for you to see it, but her name is here. You see those three pines, standing together? That is, where she died."

Diana could only look, with dilated eyes, at those three black trees.

"Here, from this spot where you are standing," said Aunt Emma, "she threw herself out of the window. Because she could not face life as it is."

"No . . ." said Diana. "You're like her," said Aunt Emma. "Too much—like her."

REDS OBJECT REVEALING A SECRET PACT

By NOLAND NORGAARD

Nuernberg, Germany, March 25 (AP)—An objection by the Russian prosecutor prevented counsel for Rudolf Hess from reading into the court record today excerpts from what he called a secret treaty concluded by Germany and Russia three days before the Nazi attack on Poland.

The lawyer asserted before the International Military Tribunal that the alleged treaty fixed spheres of influence in Eastern Europe and that details were contained in an affidavit submitted by Dr. Frederich Gaus, former German ambassador to Moscow.

Soviet Prosecutor R. A. Rudenko jumped up to object to the reading of "surprise documents" before they were translated and submitted to the prosecution.

"I don't know what kind of documents he is talking about," Rudenko said. "It sounds like hearsay to me."

Asks For Molotov
When Chief Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence sustained the objection, Hess' lawyer countered with:

"In that case I must ask permission to call Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov to establish if this agreement was not actually concluded."

One provision of the alleged secret agreement, the attorney said, was that Germany "declared itself uninterested in three Baltic states—Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia—and Finland."

The Tribunal ignored that request and the galleries tittered.

Earlier, a document introduced by Hess' counsel claimed that the former deputy fuhrer had warned the British government, a month after he parachuted into Scotland, that the Nazis planned to establish concentration camps and to starve the British population if an attempt were made to continue the war after an invasion of the British isles.

ing their place of business one hour earlier, and I cannot see why we all should be subject to Daylight Time when it is not universal.

"What will those parties working for employers not observing Daylight Time do?"

"I see no use to make this change in our time. If the business people want to adopt Daylight Time let them do the same as they handled the change of closing on Thursday afternoon and every other day deliveries to their customers."

"The public was not consulted about these changes. Every one had to adapt themselves to the change. Also our leading manufacturing company did not need to ask about making their change of working hours for their employees to let them have a full holiday on Saturday instead of only half a day."

"I would think all employers would be willing to let their employees go to work one hour earlier and not need to change the clock. Yours truly, E. A. Bupp."
